

IS THE WORST OVER?

CHOLERA SCOURGE SUBSIDING.

Number of Deaths in European Towns Decreasing.—The Situation in New York and at Quarantine.

Hamburg, Sept. 5.—The ambulances took to the hospitals yesterday 280 cholera patients, of which number 158 died. This was 45 fewer patients than were conveyed to the hospitals Saturday, while the deaths were 38 less in number.

The city yesterday presented quite an animated scene compared with its appearance on the preceding Sunday. The promenades and public resorts were largely patronized, and altogether there was displayed a more confident feeling, which still prevails this morning, and it is believed that the decrease in new cases and deaths will continue.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Standard from Hamburg says that the temperature of the water of the river Elbe is four degrees higher than that of the air. While the total number of deaths in Hamburg in 1891 was 15,900, already this year have been 12,500 deaths in that city.

The board relief committee of Hamburg has provided an asylum for 400 orphans and 200 children already waiting for admission. Eight more barracks hospitals for cholera patients have been opened in the city.

The steamer Elbe, from Hamburg, arrived in the Tyne last evening with one of her officers down with cholera. He was removed to the floating hospital which has been provided for the cholera patients, where he died this morning. The steamer has been placed in quarantine.

Petersburg, Sept. 5.—There were reported throughout Russia on Friday 3,812 new cases of cholera, and 1,791 deaths from the disease.

In the city of St. Petersburg 103 new cases and 49 deaths were reported yesterday. It should again be pointed out, however, that these figures include only the patients who are taken to the hospitals and who die in them.

Lectures are delivered at the town hall on the best methods of disinfection. For hundreds have volunteered their services as sisters of charity. Some of these, as well as those who have attended the disinfecting classes, will give their services gratuitously, while others will be paid at the rate of one rouble a day.

Compared with the official figures of Thursday the returns of Friday for all Russia show a decrease of 2,800 new cases and 923 deaths. Compared with the new cases and deaths reported in St. Petersburg on Saturday, Sunday's figures show a decrease of 17 cases and an increase of 9 deaths.

HEALTH OFFICERS SANGUINE.

New York, Sept. 5.—The fact that cholera has not yet made its appearance in the city makes the health officers sanguine. Said President Wilson, of the health board: "There is nothing new to-day. We have made every preparation and are now simply waiting. I found yesterday that affairs at quarantine were working perfectly. The laws of the land and of humanity cannot be better enforced than they are now by Dr. Jenkins."

QUANTITIES, Sept. 5.—Three new cases of cholera have appeared on the Riga with one death, and three new cases and one death on the Normannia. The three cases on the Normannia were among the crew of that vessel.

Two Convincing Addresses.

FREDERICKSBURG, VA., Sept. 5.—[Special.] This has been a great day for the Democracy of Spotsylvania. It does not often fall to the lot of county people to hear two congressmen speak on the same day, and when it becomes known that Congressman William A. Jones, candidate for re-election in this district, and Congressman Charles T. O'Ferrall would speak to-day at the court-house the sturdy farmers of this historic old county came from far and near to hear these eloquent exponents of Democratic principles.

Colonel O'Ferrall, who was enthusiastically cheered upon his appearance in the court-room, was introduced by Mr. James L. Rawlings, chairman of the Democratic caucus. Colonel O'Ferrall, as was expected, attracted attention of his hearers, and for nearly two hours held them spell-bound. He said he had no fight with the Alliance; for years he had been preaching Alliance doctrines. But he drew a distinction between the Alliance and the Third party. He said there were two parties in the world, the party of the people and the party of the few. He said that the party of the people was the party of the future, and that the party of the few was the party of the past.

He stated the Republican party was the party the Democracy had to fight, and discussed the principles of both parties to the advantage of the latter.

At this stage some Third party man asked permission to make an announcement, which was granted. He stated that a Mr. Bixton would speak on the court ground and invited the audience to hear him. Colonel O'Ferrall resumed his speech, and he went away to take part in what Colonel O'Ferrall styled a Republican aid society.

Colonel O'Ferrall showed that the Democratic party had always been the friend of the farmers, and that their hope of relief was through that party. He reminded the farmers that the Democrats had voted in the House of Representatives for the Omnibus bill, the Plague and Mouth Disease bill, all in the interest of the farmers, and that a Republican Senate had prevented some of these bills from becoming laws. He also reminded them that the Democrats had elevated the office of Secretary of Agriculture to a Cabinet position.

He then took up the Force bill and showed up all its inequities and paid a high tribute to the late Samuel J. Randall, who prevented the enactment of a Force bill when an attempt was made some years ago in Congress to thrust such a measure on the Southern people. Colonel O'Ferrall made a masterly speech, explaining fully the tariff and all of the issues of the canvass, and his audience was composed largely of the farmers and Alliance men who were present in their thousands.

Colonel O'Ferrall interspersed his speech with many anecdotes which pleased his audience immensely. In closing he made a strong appeal to all Virginians, and especially to the Confederates present and brought tears to the eyes of many soldiers. Colonel O'Ferrall's name was loudly applauded whenever mentioned.

At the close of Colonel O'Ferrall's speech Mr. James L. Powell arose in the audience and asked permission to reply. Mr. Jones, who was expected to follow Colonel O'Ferrall in a graceful speech, accorded him the privilege. Mr. Powell, who is a Third party man, spoke for about twenty minutes. He defended Weaver and Field and concluded his speech by complimenting Mr. Jones.

MR. JONES'S SPEECH.

Mr. Jones then took the stand and was received with great enthusiasm. He made a very conciliatory speech which was well received by his audience. He challenged any present to show him where he had opposed any measure that was calculated to benefit the farmers. Mr. Jones dwelt at length on free silver, tariff reform and the graduated income tax. He explained fully the latter measure to the satisfaction of his hearers. He showed that $150,000,000 per annum are now paid out for pensions, which is one-third of the receipts of the Government from all sources, and that 5,000 new pensioners per week are now being added under the dependent Pension bill passed by the last Congress. He also stated that he had recently seen a letter from Commissioner of Pensions Baum, showing that 800,000 pensioners are now pending upon it. As a result he said the pension roll would, in a short time, reach about $225,000,000, or one-half the total receipts of the Government. It would be impossible to repeal that bill. The Northern Democrats and Republicans would never submit to it, and under Republican rule the Government was practically bankrupt. Under the McKinley bill revenues were steadily decreasing and the pension roll increasing. He said some measure must be adopted to meet this crisis. He favored the income tax, showed that a graduated income tax on incomes in excess of $5,000 would raise sufficient revenue to pay the entire pension roll.

Mr. Jones told these farmers that he supported the Anti-Option bill, which was designed to prevent gambling in wheat, etc. He showed that he was in thorough sympathy with all the essential and practical demands of the farmers.

Mr. Jones read a letter from Colonel X. X. Charters, master of the State Grange and member of the executive committee of the National Grange, stating that he had watched his course in Congress and thoroughly indorsed it, and wishing him God-speed in the canvass.

Mr. J. S. Bixton, of Appomattox county, representing the Third party, made a wild talk out on the court yard, and had for an audience about twelve negroes and eight or ten white men.

The Democracy was never in better shape. The Republicans are discouraged and the Third party is too small to consider.

The Democrats Will Win.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 5.—The general election for State officers and constitutional amendments is progressing very quietly, and a much smaller vote than usual is being polled. Reports from Pine Bluff, Fort Smith, Texarkana and other points throughout the State show that the voting is slow and without excitement. The negro vote has fallen off greatly, and is attributed to the negroes lack of knowledge of the Australian ballot system. Much surprise is expressed over the small showing made by the People's party. The Democrats are rolling up the usual majority, and in some cases the through local results are assisted by the politicians as against the People's party.

Died of Diphtheria.

Pulaski, Va., Sept. 3.—[Special.—] Hon. Joseph C. Wyser has lost a son of his little daughter, from diphtheria, and is reported to be quite unwell himself.

Judge Hudson, of our county court, undertook to sharpen his razor on his arm and gave himself quite a severe gash.

The Marshall Family.

Last month "The Times" published a book entitled "The Marshall Family," which included in its pages genealogical facts concerning many old Virginia families. Mr. W. D. Paxton, of the St. Claire Hotel, is a near kinsman of the author, Mr. W. M. Paxton, of Platte City, Mo., who has lately written him, much pleased at the attention the book has attracted by the "Times" reference to it. He is now trying to arrange a reunion of the Marshall family during the projected World's Fair, also the Paxton family at the same time and place at Virginia's building there.

The office of Colonel A. S. Buford was the scene of the meeting yesterday afternoon of the executive committee of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical Society.

It is proposed to have a big competition drill and a display of a military nature during the approaching Exposition.

Colonel John Murphy and the Messrs. Wadley, Wood, Campbell, Crenshaw and Chamberlain were appointed a committee to confer with the State military relative to arrangements for the same. The outlook for a good show this fall is a very bright one.

Bit His Finger Off.

James Jones was arrested at the Exposition Grounds yesterday afternoon charged with biting off the finger of William Gentry. Both of the men are white.

Richmond Theatre.

A rollicking farce comedy adapted from the German entitled "The Colonel" was presented last evening at the new Richmond Theatre by Oscar P. Sisson and his clever associate comedians.

The comedy is on the order of "Doctor Bill." "The Magistrate" and several other successful laugh-makers, and held the audience from jump to finish. The climax of the audience acted stamps the play's worth, and in the hands of such an evenly-balanced company as that which last evening made its bow to a Richmond audience can but warm the coldest house.

Messrs. Saint Maur and Sisson and Misses Florence Sheppard and Florence Wolcott were the favorites, whilst the other members of the company sustained their roles with marked ability.

Several original musical numbers and the clever piano playing of Mr. Walter Brooke added spice to the evening's fun. They play again to-night.

A Remarkable Man.

Last Saturday Mr. George F. Merrill received a letter and a photograph from Mr. Amos A. Parker, of Fitz William, N. H., who is the oldest university graduate in the United States, if not in the world. He will be 101 years old on the 8th day of next month, and graduated at the University of Vermont in 1813. He has been married three times, and is still hale and hearty. According to his photograph he does not look to be over eighty years. He is a great scholar and literateur, and his mind is apparently as clear to-day as ever.
